

Real-World Problems

1. Choose one of the following real-world problems that is most relevant or interesting to you in your life right now.
  - One young man came home early from his mission.
  - Another is in his thirties and is yet unmarried.
  - A young woman never knew her father because her parents divorced when she was little, and he refused to maintain contact.
  - Yet another young woman went on a mission, married in the temple, and then found herself in an abusive relationship. She was divorced before her second anniversary.
  - A middle-aged woman was trying to earn a living at the same time she was raising her family as a single parent and didn't have enough hours in the day to do all expected of her.
  - Another sister felt she might as well be a single parent. Her husband was not a member and did nothing to support her in her efforts to bring up the children in the Church.
  - A middle-aged man was deeply troubled because his ex-wife left the Church when she divorced him and now the children, who remained with their mother, were being bombarded with anti-Mormon literature.
  - One mother was struggling to deal with her teenage daughter's suicide, although it had happened many years earlier.
  - Choose one of your own that is relevant to your life right now.
